Medley of '59

In an atmosphere of sound in which there is much melody, harmony, and rhythm,

Poly students prepare for the future.

In achievement there is melody.

In participation there is harmony.

In constant activity there is rhythm.

We have tried to bring you

by means of words and pictures

the essence of Poly

with industrious hum of movement,

with intervals of hushed silence,

with energy of resounding enthusiasm.

The 1959 Parrot is a record of Poly

with variations in people, in spirit—

in short, a medley of life.

Pan-American Club

With a flair of South American flavor, the Spanish Club has changed to the Pan-American Club. Starting the year off was a dinner held at the Mexican Inn with the state president, as guest speaker. Meetings were spiced with impressive speakers and colorful films. Activities included a Christmas party at which funds were collected for the Lena Pope Home. During April, a convention was held in Austin, and to close the season a picnic was given in honor of Senior members.

Student Council

Members of this council are chosen by the student body to represent them in the governing of Poly. Their duties this year have included decorating Mr. "T's" Christmas tree, sponsoring a "cleaner lunchroom" campaign, and supplying name tags for all classroom doors.

A turkey shoot was their most important and successful money raising project. By completing this active schedule, the Student Council has proved itself a rewarding and necessary part of Poly.

Future Nurses

The Future Nurses of America is an organization to stimulate interest in nursing. Activities such as visiting hospitals and listening to speakers enable members to glimpse the importance and responsibility of carrying out Florence Nightingale's pledge of devoting themselves to the welfare of those committed to their care.

Representatives from Poly attended the State Convention in Galveston on March 20-21. The program included a style show of nurses' uniforms—past, present, and future.

Let Every Task Invite

They presented a variety of programs which filled the year with highlights in various phases and left the promise of many yet to come.

Other plans were full and varied —they began with the annual spring formal at the Woman's Club. A brunch and swimming party also highlighted the season.

They participated in a service program with pins awarded for outstanding service and the number of hours served.

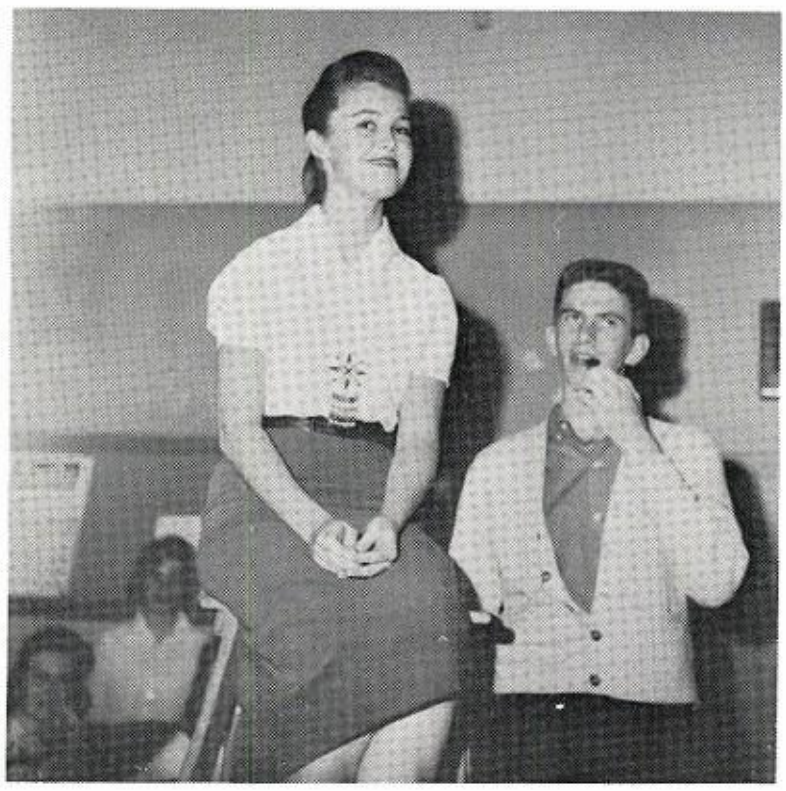
Junior Classical League



How much am I bid?

Striving to pass on the torch of classical civilization to the modern world, the Junior Classical League publishes a newspaper, The Scintilla, and holds its meetings in true Roman style. Slaves, auctioned at the opening meeting, were freed and became masters for a day at the Christmas Saturnalia. Other outstanding events were a dinner at the Italian Inn, State Convention in San Angelo in April, and a party at the end of the year which honored graduating seniors.

Bowling Club

Organized for the students who like competitive bowling, this club has become one of the largest organizations in Poly.

This year the bowlers met every Monday afternoon after school. Each team competed against every other team for the club championship. Members of the winning team at the end of the first semester were Darrell Labhart, Jimmy McCash, Charles Cox, Richard McDuff, and . To celebrate the end of the school year a party was held for all the members.

Poly's Glee Club has been very busy this year. The first plan for their calendar was a Choral Clinic at T.W.C. where schools from all over the city met to improve their choral techniques. Next a trip to Jacksboro for a Music Festival gained a high rating for the Chorus.

On March 20, they helped give the All-City Chorus at Will Rogers Auditorium. During the year they gave a Christmas Program and have reminded the student body of the important Holidays by having members sing appropriate songs over the loud speaker. Garden-party music provided by the glee club, made a grand finale for the musical year of 1959.

Superintendent
J. P. MOORE

Assistant Superintendents
W. A. MEACHAM, DAVID SELLARS

Having served Poly as principal for eleven years, Mr. Moore now serves as Superintendent of schools. Holding the position of Assistant Superintendent is Mr. Meacham, also a past principal of Poly. Supervisor of our schools is Mr. Sellars.

Miss Evelyn Martel, Dean of Girls
Mr. Pat Dodson, Vice-Principal

Office Personnel

Checking attendance, administering discipline, and revising schedules keep the vice-principals busy. However, both of them take time to help solve problems of students, and teachers.

I know this should be a blue slip, Mrs. Jenkins.

What seems to be the trouble?

Nice steak today.

A big spoonful, please.

Special Personnel

Completing his fourteenth year at Poly, Mr. Woodall supervises a staff of eight. Stubborn coke machines, broken pencil sharpeners, and temperamental locks all succumb to the head custodian's dexterity.

Roy Woodall
Custodian

Keeping seventeen hundred people full and happy is no easy task, but Mrs. Mary Evans has satisfied Parrots for eleven years. When she retires at the end of this school year, she will have completed twenty years of service to the Fort Worth Public School System.

Autographs

Dearest Joy,

This section is labeled merely "autographs"; however, I think I'd like to write a li'l 'somethin' extra (probably because you'll have my head on a stake if I don't). Now as I go with you longer and longer, I enter different phases of relationship - that is, I think of you in one way and then in another. Two things don't change:

(a) I love you without change

(b) My handwriting isn't getting any better.

Maybe I ought to be more serious and stick to the subject. I could say that I haven't known you very long - and I've fallen pretty hard in a short period of time. Seems like yesterday you were too young for me to consider going with - and here I am. It's been pretty hectic - which may be good or bad. The present face terrifies me in a way - but if we go any slower you might lose your giddiness and move on to better features. Reason? I'll sit off at 1:40 A.M., Wednesday, 3 June 1959, until I can figure it out.

So now I punch in at 12:46 PM, June 10. Times haven't changed much; my handwriting is still a form of hieroglyphics with tired blood - Explorer III is still in orbit - so is my sheepskin - I still think the picture you were struck with is a vile slander - and I still love you.

It's really hard to say that I love you - or anybody. Sometimes I'm afraid I'm incapable of loving anyone but myself - and I'm too chicken to go to a psychiatrist and find out. It's not enough different from any feeling I've ever had before - "but is it different enough to be it?" I keep asking. Well, I guess I don't know - but I'd like to find out - and I'd like to find out with you.

Sometimes there seem to be some pretty big gaps between us; you are now in an institution that I have not attended for so long that its mos vivid memories are getting fuzzy. And I've passed through some new philosophies since then.

This much I remember very easily, if a little feinfully:

(a) I'd give anything I own in this world to be starting in again - and kno what I know now.

(b) Nothing on this earth could persuade me to go back - and not know what I know now.

(c) I wish I'd known you then.

All my love,
Ralph

P. S. The only thing wrong with my particular brand of nostalgia is that it's trimmed in black. But I want to set down here a few things that we like to remember - because high school was a number of things that I like to remember - unlike like college.

I like to remember the night of a degree presentation by the Demolay when you purposed a certain something within your heart. I like to think of the 27th of July, when I walked into a trap — and stayed all winter. Well ever remember the ridiculous amount of time it took me to write in your annual because I just can't write sensibly until the spirit is upon me. We'll remember the huge picnic lunches you took, and the overinflated friends (?) that found I could have a sharp tongue. We'll remember the movies, the swimming, the bridge over the toll road — and if the gods say that your and I were not to be — well, then, we'll've already had our memories, and no apologies for 'em!

I love you, termite!

Ralph

Dearest Jay,

I'm writing this for us three, Barbara, Doug, and me. Of all the young people I have ever worked, I find you the very best in that long list. I know your personality is inherited from your fine parents, but I'll not belittle you beautiful character, sparkling personality, and your wonderful Christian influence. My prayer for you is that you will find the very best life has to offer in every possible way, materially, socially, but most of spiritually. May you always live in the center of His will whom to know intimately means life eternal. If Barbara were here she would say the same thing because we have found in you a true friend, and a gracious hostess.

Sincerely, may you live in the lap of excitement, the hope of a bright future, the bosom of security, and peace of our Saviour.

This is my desire for you,

Jack D. Terry

Best of luck to a real swell girl who I have enjoyed going to school with. Loads of love and fun. Always, Kathy Graves

Dear Joy,

It sadly has been great knowing you and being your friend these past 2 years. I hope & sincerely hope that our friendship continues to grow. Joy, you are a darling girl and I think the world of you. May the best of everything always come your way. God bless you!

Love always,

Jan Peterson

Dear Joy,

I have enjoyed being in English class with you. I hope we will always be the very best of friends since we've been so close in English class. Lots of luck always
